Griffmen Nose Out a Victory Game Played on Wind Swept Field Over the Newark Internationals

By WILLIAM PEET.

Grabbing a 3 to 2 verdict from the Newark International League here yesterday brought out some noisy pitching from South-paw Harry Harper and Henry Collier, of the Griffmen, who yielded between them four safe blows. A twenty knot gale caused outsiders to run around in circles after fly balls, and it was so cold that only a handful of spectators witnessed the pastime.

Washington was lucky to win, the much needed tally coming in the fifth inning when Chick Gandil dumped a Texas leaguer to left field, the ball falling safe, as W. Zimmerman lost it in the sun.

Both the Newark pitchers, George Bell and Wyatt Lee were effective, as the half dozen hits credited to the home folks will attest. Ragged fielding and listless work by Washington and Newark alike marked the pastime. It was much too cold and raw for good baseball.

The visitors were first to score when Willie Zimmerman blasted open the second inning by driving the ball over Milan's head for a triple. Getz's sacrifice fly put him over the plate.

Washington counted in the third, Henry, by virtue of an error, followed by a couple of singles and a sacrifice fly, completed the circuit.

The Nationals jumped into the lead in the fourth. Shanks tripped to right, and when Catcher Heckinger threw to third base in an attempt to catch Shanks napping, nobody being there to receive the throw, the Monaco Marvel scooted across the plate.

Two safe drives, bunched with a wild pitch and a couple of "boots," gave Newark a marker in the sixth, the first inning Collier started to twirl, but Washington still had the edge by one point, and Collier was able to prevent further scoring.

Germany Schaefer held down third base and did a good job of it, making one fancy stop and throw and coming through with a base knock in the eighth. Wyatt Lee, who once wore a Washington uniform, worked four innings for Newark and pitched good ball.

The veteran caught four daring base-runners napping, and allowed but three hits, only one of these being clean-out. Score:

York State Fair grounds on a plowed field, and it was a question of luck more than skill. The Reds had the luck.

Needless to say, every member of the Washington club will work his head off in the Ohio city to win both of the coming exhibition games, which are sure to be generously patronized, providing, of course, the weather holds fair.

Wyatt Lee, who makes Washington his home in the winter, and who was one of the most popular players on the local club during the Cantonian regime, was in the box for the Newark Indians during the last four innings yesterday, and made a fine showing.

Lee is regarded as one of the best box men in the National League. He has often played the outfield on account of his hitting. Yesterday was the first time he had set foot on the Florida avenue ball yard since he was sent to the Newark club several years ago.

The Nationals will play the University of Vermont team here this afternoon, and Griffith will work two of his young pitchers, probably Schwabe and Johnny Mumford or Paul Muster.

Vermont is coached by George Wynn, the old Boston Red Sox pitching star, and rated as one of the fastest college teams in New England.

Two years ago in Syracuse, N. Y., an exhibition game was played between the Nationals and the Cincinnati Reds, which resulted in an overwhelming victory for the National Leaguers.
